Editor's Window

What is a Pine Cone?
OPINION

(Webster, 1962): The Cone of a Pine Tree.

(J. A. Easton, Editor, 22 May, 1926): A newspaper which prints the news . . . and let's the people form their own honest opinion . . . interested in crime only as a passing phenomena.

(J. A. E. and Allen Griffin, co-editors, 9 July, 1926): Whatever is done with the Pine Cone will make precious little difference a thousand years from now.

(Archibald McPhail, Editor, 6 October, 1939): The Pine Cone and Carmel are the means to a useful and profitable existence.

(Carlos Drake, Editor, 5 July, 1940): A well-mannered, well-informed newspaper having a pleasing personality, knowing when to be serious, when to be light-hearted, and how not to be a bore, a prude or an ass, and above all how never to be dull.

(Larry Rose, Editor, 5 July, 1962): A mirror, a window, a catalogue, a conscience, a showplace, a memory . . . and anticipation.

FACT

A weekly newspaper, published continuously for 48 years in Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, each edition requiring something like 220 man-hours of labor, 260 pounds of newsprint, 3500 pounds of type, two gallons of ink, approximately 400 column inches of copy, 720 column inches of display advertising and 150 column inches of classified advertising.

A confusion of terms? A contradiction of values? Not at all. Each is valid as far as it goes. Each is expressive of some particular phase of the paradoxical antagonism between the art of business and the art of life.

New Owners

The Pine Cone has new owners. They are Larry Rose, clerk-controller for the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, and George Walker, an attorney who lives in Carmel and maintains law offices in Monterey. Mr. Rose is the Pine Cone's new editor and publisher and this is his first edition. Mr. Walker will act as the Pine Cone's business manager. As soon as the city finds a qualified candidate for city clerk, Mr. Rose will leave his city administrative job.

Friendship Abounds As Pacific Air Lines Starts New Service

This week is Monterey-San Diego Friendship Week. It is also Seaside-San Diego, Pacific Grove-San Diego, Del Rey Oaks-San Diego, Sand City-San Diego, and San Francisco-San Diego Friendship Week.

But it is not Carmel-by-the-Sea-San Diego Friendship Week.

This distressing state of affairs came about because Mayor pro tempore Francis Whitaker declined to issue a proclamation proposed by the advertising director of Pacific Airlines, Mr. Robert J. Dixon, who is friendly with everybody, and who wanted to be sure that when the Inaugural Flight of the Airlines new direct service between San Diego and the Peninsula arrived last Saturday morning, the atmosphere would be congenial.

Even officials of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce urged upon Mayor Whitaker that he prove how friendly Carmelites are. They pressed other city officials to urge Mayor Whitaker to be friendly. Mayor Whitaker, who was friendly about the whole thing, nonetheless adamantly refused to commit all of us in writing to be friendly for such a long period of time.

Ready Arms! With banquets, bonfires, fireworks and a wonderfully illicit assortment of firecrackers, the citizenry last night fought on Carmel beach the 186th engagement of the Glorious Fourth. Police and Fire precautions: all hands on duty, one-way traffic on Scenic, the ambulance standing by at the beach. Precautions taken by no one: sunburn lotion, with fog the order of the day. Casualties: None!

Wonderful Quotes Anonymous—It's the glorious Fourth, see? And we're at the beach, see? And it's like mad, dad:

"No, Robert! Don't light that end!"

And now, it's very late at night, and sort of still and empty: "I've closed many a bar, but this is the first beach I've ever closed."

Peninsula Area Plan Just Another Essay In Futility

BY LARRY ROSE

The Proposed Monterey Peninsula Area Plan, hobbled by history, baffled by today and resigned to tomorrow, was hopefully displayed last Thursday night in the Monterey council chamber to an area-wide audience of some 85 public officials, amateur handicappers and conscientious laymen more or less sympathetic to its fate.

Though gallantly introduced by Simon Eisner, sometime Director of the American Institute of Planners, who is currently collaborating with the local planning firm of Hall & Goodhue on the project, the plan proved not very provocative. And there are reasons why this is necessarily so, Eisner suggested in his preface and Gordon Hall, principal planner to the Monterey Peninsula Area Planning Commission, confirmed in his exposition.

Eisner's introduction, urbane, intense and consummately logical, nonetheless consisted primarily of swooping and soaring generalities, the stock-in-trade of the planning game.

"We can't chart a plan for the future until we see the present as an entity," he stated. He also said, "Our assignment was to determine how to accommodate the growth of the Peninsula without destroying the reason for the growth."

He implied that this had been done, at least to his satisfaction, when he concluded that "The plan we are presenting provides a proper relation between the people and the urban community in which they will live."

The plan is hobbled by the boundaries of early land grants, "drawn by some Spaniard in Spain," and by the already-adopted local plans, which Eisner said "were not disturbed" by the area plan. He did not say whether the area planners would have enjoyed so doing, though it is fairly obvious that if something enterprising and cohesive were to be produced, the area plan probably would have to "disturb" the uncoordinated local plans quite a bit.

Eisner, obviously preoccupied with the practical as well as the esthetic, suggested that tourism should be the basis for economic support of Peninsula growth.

"The Peninsula has a collection of resources most attractive to support a tourist industry," he said.

Hall, later on, implied why no choice existed, when he noted that the proportion of manufacturing and agriculture in the area is relatively low and the environment for stimulating it would not

New Pine Cone Heads Face Future . . .

Larry Rose, who saw Carmel for the first time from horseback while riding near Jacks Peak in 1928, and George Walker, Ohio-born attorney who believes he represents another kind of Carmelite—the Midwesterner who becomes enamored of Carmel and never goes home, took over operation of the 48-year-old Carmel Pine Cone this week.

Larry, a cheerful, self-confident native Californian with a long-standing affection for Carmel, will be editor and publisher. George, who like Larry is genial, youthful-looking and interested in a wide variety of things, will be his partner.

But attempting to introduce partners Rose and Walker in Carmel is somewhat like offering to conduct a tour of the Carmel post office; everyone is familiar with it already, even the visitors.

In Larry's 17 years here and George's 10, they have met many people and started many friendships. For the past six years Larry has served the city as clerk-controller.

And though taking over publication of the city's oldest and only newspaper is something that came about casually (in the best Carmel tradition), they say they intend to pursue the new interest enthusiastically and conscientiously (also in the best Carmel tradition).

"This all happened," Larry explains, "when one of us said to the other of us, 'How about the Pine Cone?' And the other said, 'Yes, how about the Pine Cone?' At first it was like asking each other 'How would you like to be the first astronaut?' But when we found later that the Pine Cone was for sale, that all changed. We looked at the plant and it was love at first sight."

Larry Rose's experience with newspapers has been limited mostly to reading them, he says. On the other hand, the best editors are the well-read, certainly. And besides, Carmel is a community of readers.

"Our hope is to make the interest of the Pine Cone very broad. Carmel is a planetary system with many satellite activities—social, artistic, commercial—all contributing to liveliness that makes the village what it is.

"The Pine Cone," its new editor says, "is going to concern itself with the examination and treatment of these activities."

"We don't want to feel that we are running the Pine Cone for ourselves," George adds, "but that we are reflecting Carmel. As a matter of fact, neither of us has a special-interest ax to sharpen in print. Our only special interest is to give attention to everything in proportion to its effect on or value to the community."

Underscoring the community-wide scope of the paper is the agreement under which George Walker and Larry Rose will operate. Their joint venture includes seven other limited partners:

Carmel's Mayor Eben Whittlesey, prominent attorney, long-time resident and member of the firm of Robison and Whittlesey; Arne Halle, Danish-born Carmelite who is manager of the Crocker-Anglo Bank; N. A. Kovacevich, Carmel businessman, former owner of Nikko's restaurant; Dr. Robert R. Read, professor of mathematical statistics at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey; William J. Cullinan, retired referee for the California Industrial Accident Commission, now a Carmel attorney; Royal D. Hawley, who has been a Carmel resident since 1955 when he retired from his railroad supply business in San Francisco, a firm he started when he and his wife (the late Marguerite Lewis Hawley who died last October) came to the Bay City right after the earthquake in 1906; and Laurence Rutman, of New York City and Carmel, vice president and general manager of United Feature Syndicate in New York.

Even not counting that idealized, pioneer-like view of Carmel from horseback Larry Rose experienced at the age of eight, Larry still had a somewhat auspicious introduction to Carmel. Born in San Francisco on May 30, 1920, he moved as a youngster with his family—his father was a businessman—to Beverly Hills. He attended the usual schools there, and a somewhat less usual one on Long Island, the United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, graduating in 1943.

The next two and a half years he spent mostly at the academy as an administrative officer, and then saw wartime service as a lieutenant in the Merchant Marine.

"In 1945 I was standing a night watch on a ship two weeks out of San Francisco when the news came that the war was over. For the first time I realized that I had a future to consider and that wherever I stopped now, I could put down roots.

"Then suddenly up came this childhood memory of me on that horse when my family was on a vacation at the old Hotel Del Monte. I remembered coming to the top of the hill and 'discovering'

Carmel. Of course right after that the horse bolted and I fell off.

"I went to Monterey, stayed with some friends of my family (Bernie and Ruth McMenamin), and took a bus to Carmel. It matched my expectations and my early memories, surprisingly enough; even though the realization is never supposed to come up to the dream, this one did.

"Mizzy (Virginia, Larry's wife, born in Kings Point) had come west with Chris (then six months old). We staged a very poignant soap opera-type maneuver during which she sat on a bench in Devendorf Plaza, homeless, with Chris in her arms, while I went out to look for a job.

"But the opera ended rather well. I found a job in two hours, although the only place we could find to stay was a doctor's office (over Carl Rohr's present store) that had been abandoned just a couple of weeks before when the doctor died. We slept on the examining table."

Larry worked as a milkman and also delivered cleaning. "If you really want to meet everyone and get to know a community thoroughly, you must deliver the milk and the dry cleaning," Larry says. "I discovered right away what I had suspected, that Carmelites are open and unpretentious. I also found a better place to live. If you're house-hunting, being the milkman helps a lot because the first thing people stop when they move out, is the milk."

In Carmel, Larry's blessings grew and so did his family. Today the Roses have three sons. Christopher Laurance Patrick Rose, who graduated this spring from Carmel High School, is now 18, and spending the summer working at Lake Tahoe. Penn Rose is 16, a junior, and Wade is 12 and a junior high student. The family home is at Twelfth and Camino Real.

While his future business partner was dramatically discovering

Carmel, George Walker was growing up in Columbus, Ohio, where he was born in 1928. He graduated from Ohio State University, taking a law degree there, and first came to the Peninsula in 1952 as a first lieutenant assigned to the judge advocate general's office at Fort Ord.

He moved to Carmel in June, 1953, and following his military discharge he became a member of the law firm of Campbell and McHarry in 1955.

"After the Army, Pat and I decided on Carmel over Toledo," George says. "It was that simple. We stayed." Pat and George are now parents of Kathleen, 8; Jeffery, 7; Carolyn, 6; Becky, 5, all of whom live at Crespi Drive and Flanders Way.

Their father is a partner in the law firm of Walker, Schroeder and Davis, Monterey.

George was president of the Monterey County Bar Association in 1959. Larry, who has in the past worked with the Golden Bough Theatre, been a "string" writer for Game and Gossip and had other such side activities indigenous to Carmel, is a past president of Carmel High School P-TA and of the Sports Car Club, among other things.

"When I was a milkman," Larry remembers, "Fred Bechdolt (a well-known journalist of his day and one of Carmel's leading early citizens) stopped me one day and gave me some of the best advice I ever had. He said, 'Just remember one thing, young fellow. In Carmel it doesn't make any difference who you are, it's what you say when you open your mouth.'"

"I am bearing Mr. Bechdolt's advice in mind particularly this week," Larry says, "because with this issue of the Pine Cone, we start to open our mouth." —R.P.

Putnam, Prima, Press Accidentally Have Lunch Together

Louis Prima, perennially prominent "socko" singer and band leader, had lunch last Tuesday in Mark Thomas's Hearthstone, together with Councilman Frank Putnam, Mrs. Putnam, and a recent addition to the staff of The Pine Cone. "Together," in this case, defines the coincidence of being seated at adjoining tables.

Immune to most celebrities, Frank and Fran turned to jelly at the near proximity of Prima, an entertainer they have enjoyed and pursued for years.

As councilman, devotee and gentleman, Frank went over to Mr. Prima, told him of his admiration, and welcomed him to Carmel. Fran, meanwhile, sighed genteelly and beamed happily. The new member of The Pine Cone staff ambitiously munched on his sandwich.

Prima and his guests eventually left, after courteously responding to Frank's greetings. That would ordinarily conclude this type of report, except that there was no luncheon check for the Putnams or The Pine Cone. Louis Prima had paid.

(Mr. Prima please note: Thanks a lot, fella, and come back. For more reasons than one, we like you.)

"I Thank All Of Carmel" ... Cliff Cook

Not that either Cliff's golf or the press need added attention. Cliff shoots consistently in the low 80's and is always copping another cup or trophy at a tournament and the Heidelberg is automatic. Its first swish is to pick up paper and feed it into the press, the second to grab it away printed. In this way the pile of paper on the left grows smaller, that on the right larger.

What it all means is that Cliff has sold the Pine Cone. He and his wife, Wilma, bought the paper in 1941. With Cliff as publisher, Wilma as editor, this team put out Carmel's weekly paper until last fall when Wilma unexpectedly died of a heart attack. Since then Cliff has carried on alone.

Before he became the publisher, Cliff was owner of the Pine Cone Press, for two years and in this capacity printed the Pine Cone each week. Before that, 1936-39, he was a printer in the backshop.

But Cliff is not abruptly going to end his 26-year association with the Pine Cone. He will be around the presses for a while yet and help Larry Rose learn the ins and outs of publishing—and it's not all putting paper in and taking it out, as the Heidelberg automatic makes it seem.

Cliff is a charter member of the Carmel Lions Club. He is a past president of this service organization and he enjoys playing on the Lions' golf team.

In farewell as a publisher, Cliff says, "I thank all of Carmel, and the Monterey Peninsula as a whole, for 20 years of good public relations, good business dealings, good friendships. Especially, I want to thank the people who have worked for the Pine Cone."

And there is another interest Cliff will be able to devote time to in the future, seeing more of his two grandchildren, Eric and Karen, the children of his daughter, Sunny, and her husband Dr. Donald Matteson, professor of chemistry at Washington State University. It's a long way to Pullman, Washington, but Cliff will now be able to take off any time he wants.

In turning the paper over to Larry Rose and George Walker,

Cliff says: "I feel that the new owners of the Pine Cone have Carmel at heart and will give the community a newspaper of which to be proud and thankful."

be good.

The note of resignation was quickly struck by Eisner, who said early in his introduction, "Research indicates that 215,000 people will be living on the Peninsula by 1985."

Nothing in either his remarks or Hall's later comments suggested that this was anything but inevitable and agreeable. While claiming much for the powers, persuasions and effectiveness of planning, neither Eisner or Hall were apparently willing to propose that the plan could or should moderate such an influx. Indeed, Hall, when he got around to exposing the plan, assured everybody that 70 percent of the growth could be contained in already-subdivided areas. He seemed not at all dismayed that the remaining 30 percent might be equivalent to 40,000 people. (Present population: Monterey, 22,618; Seaside, 19,353; total 41,971.) A not inconsequential number, no matter how blithely dismissed.

Hall, who has a friendly, reassuring and slightly ruffled approach, enthusiastically assailed the audience with an artful battery of charts, diagrams, statistics and other absorbing data. A cracking good planner, he is also cogent and persuasive. He knew exactly where he was going—which wasn't far, as it turned out—and how to get there, which was disarmingly direct.

His arguments were simple: there is no symmetry or organic quality to the piecemeal planning now provided on the Peninsula, alarmingly little yet has been done to preserve our assets; the waterfronts, forest, skyline, mountain peaks, rivers and lakes must have first priority; if Carmel Valley is to be preserved, a point of separation between intense urban development and rural development must be found; continuous separation by greenbelt and other natural features of the many identifiable neighborhoods must be fostered.

But in spite of a learned effort, the plan shows not too much spirit. Perhaps it simply could not.

As far as Carmel and Carmel Valley are concerned it may actually give greater cause for alarm than reassurance.

ITEM: a major highway through Canada de la Segunda, into the "waist" of Carmel Valley, to drain the Fort Ord "work area," hardly consistent with the avowed rural purposes of the Valley.

ITEM: a 2,000-acre wilderness park straddling the mountains north of Wolter's Market in the Carmel Valley.

ITEM: a scenic road across Carmel River Lagoon, (previously knocked out of the Carmel Master Plan,) linking Carmel Point with Highway One at Carmel Meadows.

ITEM: Extensive low density residential development of the Odello artichoke fields and the foothills of the Fish Ranch, both south of Carmel.

ITEM: A road connecting with Rio Road at Highway One, proceeding easterly up Carmel Valley, south of the shopping center and new Junior High School, eventually joining the Valley Road east of Rancho Rio Vista.

If the ambitious are disappointed and the apprehensive are alarmed, they may yet take some assurance from one of Hall's most comforting observations. As divided as we seem, he has found a common bond linking most all of us together in one way or another: our sewer systems and water mains.

JEAN WILKINSON HERE

In Carmel for two or three weeks is Mrs. Wilbur R. Wilkinson of Pacific Palisades. She is living in the home of her mother, the late Mrs. Eleonora B. McComish.

Her daughter, Judy, who is studying for her M.A. in speech therapy at Stanford University (in connection with the medical school), and attends the summer quarter there, is planning to visit Carmel on week ends. Mr. Wilkinson also hopes to come north while his wife and daughter are here.

The Wilkinsons' son, Gregor, is a resident in surgery at Los Angeles General Hospital; his wife, Evelyn, also a physician, is a resident in radiology at the same hospital.

BISHOP KIP BENEFIT

A benefit performance of Iolanthe, Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, will be given 13 July at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre to aid the Bishop Kip School, an elementary Episcopal private school in Carmel. Tickets may be obtained at All Saints' Episcopal Church, The House of Sweden or Browse Around Record Shop.

Carmel High's 1962 Football Schedule

With the avowed intention of de-throning King City as the kingpin of the Coast Counties Athletic League B-division, Carmel High School's football players will open grid drills on August 29 in preparation for an eight-game schedule which includes a practice tilt with the St. Francis Lancers of Mountain View. The Padres have never played the Lancers in football, but the Mountain View school has been a contestant in the Carmel Basketball Tournament for the past two years and has played other B-division schools in the CCAL.

Missing from the football scene at Carmel High will be junior-varsity coach, Fred Rainer, who is taking a year's leave to study in England. Although devoting his time to junior varsity football during his tenure at Carmel High, the wily Rainer is one of the most respected coaches in the CCAL, and is especially feared by rival coaches because his charges are always drilled to perfection in the basic fundamentals of football. Coach Rainer sends an undefeated junior-varsity up to the varsity this season and this unit could get the job done for Coach Hadley Hicks and his big fellows. Taking over for Rainer as junior-varsity mentor will be Jason Harbert, an ex-Padre grid great, who was drafted from the Monterey High School grid staff.

Equipped with a host of returning lettermen and buoyed up by the good jayvee players moving up to the squad, varsity coaches, Hadley Hicks and Dick Lawitzke, are confident the Padres will be more than a match for the fired-up King City Mustangs when the league action starts. The Mustangs broke Carmel's 36-game win streak last season and will be prime targets for the Padres this year.

The 1962 schedule:
August 29—First practice.
September 14—Jamboree with Pacific Grove.
September 21—Saint Francis—there.
September 28—Gonzales—there.
October 5—Hollister—here.
October 12—Gilroy—there.
October 19—King City—here.
October 26—San Lorenzo—here.
November 2—Live Oak—there.
November 9—Pacific Grove—here.

Another Term—Dr. Grant Fletcher was re-elected president of the board of education of the Carmel Unified School District Monday night.

Forest Theater Sunday—Selections from Westside Story, marches by John Philip Sousa and Dixie music will be included in the program of the Monterey Civic Band at the Forest Theater, Sunday, at 2:00 p. m. This 30-piece band is under the direction of Herb Miller.

Legion Command—Frank Girard has taken over from Paul Artellan as Commander of Carmel's American Legion Post 512. Other officers are Dick Zimmerman, Kerman Alderson, Fabian Era, Al Chapin, Rolland Pilon, Stan Clay and Levi Galloway; also Dick Hendricks, Seth Warner, Tom Riley, John Chitwood and Rolland Pilon.

Artellan Uncovered—Paul Artellan, retired American Legion Post 512 Head has lost his Legion cap, all covered with medals and practically as well as sentimentally important to Paul. Call MA 4-6625 if cover is discovered.

Fashionable Station wagons—Old station wagons, once doomed to junk heap, are showing up as prized transport for the surfboard set using our big beach and small waves. Great for transporting the seven- and eight-foot boards are the vintage, wooden-bodied old Fords. Best bet, though, old hearses.

Sparkling Crown—Pamela Jean Gamble, 18, of Carmel Valley, was crowned Miss California on Saturday night.

Designing Brown—Don Brown, formerly with Architect Wallace Holm, has become a member of the staff of the Carmel firm, Burde, Shaw and Kearns, where musical chairs is being played as Glenn Kearns severs association to become Assistant Building Inspector with the city.

A Color Film—The Pasadena Tournament of Roses will be shown at Carmel Foundation Town House at the regular Wednesday meeting at 3:00 p. m. on 11 July by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Deck, as one of their Screen Tours, a once-a-month feature.

Success—subscription radio station KPFA and 1,000 Carmelites are richer. The first by $1,800; the second by having heard Joan Baez sing at the Ephraim Doner residence in Carmel Highlands.

Fish—Carmel River, Los Padres Reservoir and Big Sur River were stocked with catchable-sized trout this week by the California Department of Fish and Game.

Fore!—The 51st Handicap Tournament of the California Golf Association commences 9 July. 500 players will swing in the six-day tournament played on the Pebble Beach, Cypress Point, Country Club, and Del Monte courses. Local players: Robert Ricklefs, Pebble Beach; Rick Rhoads, Pebble Beach; Harry Craviotti, Carmel; Ronald H. Rhoads, Pebble Beach, and Bill Farish, Jr., Pebble Beach.

New President—Ian Belangee, president, told other Carmel Kiwanis Club members today that Merle H. Tucker of Gallup, New Mexico, is the new Kiwanis International president.

Senator Engle On Eagle Protection Subcommittee

Senator Clair Engle (D-Calif.) has been appointed to a special subcommittee which is considering legislation aimed at protecting the golden eagle.

The bill, H.J. Res. 105, and an accompanying resolution, S.J. Res. 105, would impose a $500 fine or six months imprisonment or both to anyone convicted of killing or capturing a golden eagle.

The subcommittee is now conducting hearings.

The golden eagle has declined numerically in recent years. The bird is valuable to farmers because it helps control rodents and other pests, the legislation contends.

The golden eagle, the national symbol of Mexico, is found in mountain ranges and adjacent

Crocker-Anglo Bank Reports 1962 Record First Six Months

Crocker-Anglo National Bank's deposits, loans, capital accounts, and assets increased to all-time highs during the first six months of the year, according to figures released today by Paul E. Hoover, chairman of the board and chief executive officer. The bank's after-tax operating income was down only slightly from the corresponding period one year ago, despite heavier interest costs.

On 30 June, 1962, deposits stood at $2,002,148,724, an increase of $211,498,595 over the corresponding total as of 30 June, 1961. All classes of deposits shared in the increase. Cash and securities on 30 June of this year amounted to $1,012,974,991 as against $898,341,073 a year ago.

Loans, less loan reserves, came to $1,129,290,075, on 30 June, 1962, an increase of $96,987,934 over the corresponding figure of $1,032,302,141 of a year ago.

The bank's total assets, which 12 months ago stood at $1,999,133,017, amounted to $2,258,779,251 as of 30 June this year, an increase of $259,646,234.

The bank's net operating income, after taxes, amounted to $7,760,795 for the six-month period ended 30 June, compared with $7,964,938 for the same period in 1961, a decrease of $204,143, or 2.6 percent for the six-month period. These results are equal to $1.18 per share on a greater number of shares outstanding during the first six months of 1962, in comparison with $1.28 per share on a smaller number of shares outstanding during the first half of 1961, as adjusted for the 16 and two-thirds percent stock dividend

Bob Spencer Says Even Without Store He Won't Be Idle

"I intend to keep busy in Carmel." Thus, succinctly, Robert P. Spencer programmed his future following sale of the business, Spencer's House of Cards, to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Staples on 29 June.

The stationery and gift shop, by now a Carmel institution, was opened by Bob and his winsome wife, Helen, on Dolores south of Ocean in June of 1946, in an empty storehouse. Moving from there to its Ocean Avenue location, it has thrived for 27 years.

"I will continue to work in the store for the time being. I don't plan any idleness, except that I probably won't be down there at 7:30 in the morning or doing stock work nights and week ends."

Asked for his reflections at the end of a 27-year venture, Bob said, "It was a 27-year privilege in a delightful community," which he assured The Pine Cone would not now be ended, but would probably extend with a new project the first of next year.

Pebble Beach Man Awarded Decision In Texas Court

A resident of Pebble Beach, T. Jack Foster, this week was awarded $1,700,000 by a federal court in El Paso, Texas, for property taken over by the U. S. Government.

The property consists of homes, built for military personnel in 1951 under the Wherry Housing Act, and taken over by the government in 1957.

Mr. Foster now is developing Foster City, a planned community for 35,000 residents adjacent to the City of San Mateo at a cost of $500 million. He has just completed Foster Towers, a 25-story, $5 million apartment house on Waikiki Beach, Hawaii.

Cliff Berry in Dual Role At Studio Sets Hilarious Pace Of Where's Charley?

For almost a century, Charley's Aunt, a play by Brandon Thomas, has meant merriment to audiences on two continents. The musical Where's Charley?, now playing at the Studio Theatre, more recently was adapted from the original Thomas comedy by George Abbott, who wrote the book, and Frank Loesser, creator of music and lyrics.

Judging by the Studio's opening performance of Where's Charley? last Friday evening, nothing of the play has been lost, rather do singing and dancing enhance the original, especially when Cliff Berry hilariously plays the dual roles of Charley Wykeham and his aunt, Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez.

From the moment Berry bounded onto the stage as Charley in the opening scene, the play began gathering laughs which grew into great bursts of mirth as the ridiculous Oxford University situation developed. Victorian in simplicity, the classic farce moved along with expert timing, each member of the cast on cue.

The burden of the comedy ably rested on the slim shoulders of Cliff Berry, whether dressed in the duds of an Oxford undergraduate or disguised in the black flounces of the necessary chaperone for a party in the students' "digs" attended by ladies.

As Charley, he sang, danced and romanced. As Charley's Aunt, he pranced, simpered and suffered. Whichever he was, he was wonderful, and the audience responded with applause and almost endless laughter. At his invitation they even joined him in singing Once In Love With Amy.

Ben Small, director of the show, sang and acted the role of Mr. Spettigue, guardian of the two pretty unchaperoned damsels who create the farcical situation on which the musical hinges. He, too, gave a remarkable performance and was rewarded with laughter and applause.

His wards, Kitty Verdun and Amy Spettigue were played respectively by Barbara Nunn and Penny Karas. The former acquitted herself admirably both in song and dance. The latter was everything any young Oxford undergraduate of any era could desire as his future bride. Dimpled and rosy-cheeked, she was a most winsome lass, and her singing a delight. Everyone understood why Charley loved her.

Bill St. John played the part of Jack Chesney, Kitty Verdun's future husband, also enmeshed in the plot of the play. Together they gave a fine rendering of the song, My Darling, My Darling.

Alan Haller did well as Jack's father, Sir Francis Chesney. Mildred Cushing was most charming as the real Donna Lucia. John Sullivan as Brassett was as discreet and dignified as an Oxford "scout" should be. Filling out the cast were two pretty girls, Patricia and Veronica, the first played by Hilary Teague, the second by Elaine Herrmann; also Nick Peters as Reggie, a third Oxford student.

The latter three, with Jack, Kitty and Amy, gave a spirited rendition of The New Ashmolean Marching Society and Students' Conservatory Band, a rousing song and dance number.

The costumes by Marcia Lou Brown and Dorothy Blais Mulvihill were excellent. Those of the girls were pretty compliments to their personalities and coloring; those of Donna Lucia, elegantly striking. Charley's disguise was ingenious.

Versatile Ben Small, in addition to singing, acting and directing, also designed and helped build the sets, no simple task as he had to create not only the undergraduate room at Oxford, but a street scene, a garden, retiring room, and ballroom, all within the confines of the Studio's tiny stage.

Gary Carver at the piano did a splendid job. Without his musical direction and fine tempo the production could not have been such a success. The sets were painted by Ruth Jordan Allan. Reed Putnam was in charge of lighting. Jerry Zellhoefer was stage manager; Cliff Berry helped construct the sets. Production assistants were Sally Hammond, Shelly Miller and John Clemmer. Costume assistants were Kay Heniford, Diane Miller, Virginia Muller and Marilyn Hellman.

Betty Hackett and Royden Martin are to be congratulated on the opening production of their fifth summer season at the Studio Theatre. Their current presentation, Where's Charley? will run nightly through July 14 at 8:30 o'clock each evening. Judging by the opening performance, the musical will draw full houses, and those neglecting to get seats well in advance will face SRO signs.

Musical Opens At White Oaks Theatre Next Wednesday

John van Druten's comedy, Bell, Book and Candle, is now in its final week at White Oaks Summer Theatre, Carmel Valley's casual barn theatre located behind the post office in the Village. Those who have not yet enjoyed a visit to the theatre where a beautiful witch is currently casting a spell on a handsome publisher, may reserve seats for an evening of light entertainment through Sunday evening by calling the box office, OLive 9-2248 or the Central Box Office in Carmel.

Next Wednesday evening, the first musical of the season opens. The show, Once Upon A Mattress, is the hilarious version of the old fairy tale, The Princess and the Pea, which skyrocketed Carol Burnett to fame several seasons ago on Broadway. Featuring members of the resident company, this laugh-filled musical will play Wednesday through Sunday nights with a matinee every Sunday through July 29.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

We welcome the National Symphony League Institute, under supervision of executive secretary Helen M. Thompson, at Asilomar for the seventh year. At the Sunday afternoon rehearsal, I heard portions of various works led by a number of conductors, among whom was a boy of 16 who showed much promise. The general policy of the league, however, is to encourage mature musicians only.

Among many events, a contemporary composers' recording session has John Gosling, conductor of the Monterey Peninsula Symphony, conducting Phillippe Buhler's Symphonic Essay. Gosling has just returned from the International Conductors' Contest in Liverpool, England, and is playing trumpet with the more than 100-piece orchestra at the League sessions.

Former conductor of the local symphony, Ronald Ondrejka, now assistant conductor of the Buffalo Philharmonic, will conduct a Theme and Passacaglia by Paul Nelson, and Symphony No. 3 by Stanley Wolfe.

Works for rehearsal are selected by the artistic directors of the institute, Dr. Richard Lert and Dr. Erno Daniel. From these selections, the visiting conductors choose what they wish to study, the scores supplied by the Free Library of Philadelphia and music publishers who waive rental fees for these study performances which will last until the final rehearsal on July 20, the day Carmel's twenty-fifth Bach Festival begins.

The 110 players already registered come from almost every state for one, two or the whole three weeks, and include musicians from Santo Domingo, Chile, and the Philippines. There are many from the principal orchestras of California.

Besides John Gosling, from our own county orchestra there are Owen Dunsford, leader; Ronnie Cummings, Elisabeth Du Val, violinists; Marjorie Oren and Louise Veletsky, cellists; also violinist Lorell McCann who directs the Hartnell Concert Ensemble and plays in the Monterey County Symphony. They play in the large ensemble at Merrill Hall.

Heard last Wednesday evening at the Carmel Presbyterian Church was the Princeton Seminary Choir on its seventeenth annual summer tour through the country. Conducted by David Hugh Jones who has been here formerly, the 18 members, young theological students all university graduates, sang with plenty of voice and enthusiasm many chorales. In the song service, music from a wide variety of the best authors was performed. Burleigh's Were You There When They Crucified My Lord was given a particularly fine rendering in tone and concept. Their general ensemble was excellent.

The coming twenty-fifth anniversary of the Carmel Bach Festival promises to be outstanding. Already some events are sold out. Conductor Sandor Sadgo is now in Carmel, also many of the participants. The daily rehearsals, and the National Symphony League institute, mean there is much music of great significance on the Peninsula at this time. This contributes in large measure to the national growth of the highest of the arts.

Naturalist Conducts Point Lobos Tours, Intertidal Walks

Conducted nature walks have started at Point Lobos Reserve State Park and will continue until September 3. All visitors who wish to learn more about the natural and human area of the reserve are invited to participate, according to Milton Frincke, park supervisor.

Depending on tides, alternating tours of Pelican Point and Sea Lion Point will be held in the morning or afternoon. Morning tours start at 11:00 o'clock and end at noon, daily except Mondays and Tuesdays. Afternoon tours will take place from 1:00-2:00 o'clock, daily except Mondays.

Every day but Monday, from 2:30-3:30 o'clock there will be a tour of Cypress Grove.

Intertidal tours will start from the Point Lobos entrance gate and visitors are requested to wear appropriate clothing and be sure-footed as these walks are hazardous.

In addition to the above tours, the park naturalist, Jud Vandever, will be available to answer questions from 9:00 o'clock in the morning until 6:00 in the evening every day except Mondays and Tuesdays. Inquiries at the entrance station at Point Lobos will enable visitors to locate him. The naturalist will also lead additional walks on any of the park trails if requests for this service are made.

Binoculars and cameras are suggested as useful on the walks. Children under 12 years old must be accompanied by a responsible adult.

sity of California at Riverside, on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

No Tickets Left For Two Bach Festival Evening Concerts

Tickets for this year's twenty-fifth annual Carmel Bach Festival, July 20-29, are rapidly being sold out; the Festival headquarters reports.

For July 23, which features the Flowering of Late Baroque Orchestral Style in the Works of J. S. Bach, and July 24 when Concerto and Concerto Grosso will be presented, there are no longer tickets available.

Seats for all other evening concerts may still be obtained in the $5.00 section for weekdays. In addition, the Sunday afternoon performances of the complete Passion According to St. Matthew, July 22 and 29, are sold out except in the $6.00 price range.

The Festival box office, which is located on San Carlos Street near Seventh Avenue, is now open Monday through Saturday from 10:00 to 4:00 o'clock daily. Additional ticket information is available by writing Box 503, Carmel, or calling MAYfair 4-1521.

Wilderness Of The West

A monthly column
By C. Edward Graves

40.—PICO BLANCO

Information about plans for developing a limestone quarry or mine on Pico Blanco, the high mountain that forms an important part of the view from the Coast Highway in the vicinity of Little Sur, seems very difficult to get. A letter that I sent to the Granite Rock Company of Watsonville over a month ago has never been answered. Evidently they are not worried about their public relations. They are the lessees of the property. The owners of the property protest that they are conservation-minded, but the spectre of a long conveyor-line carrying loads of limestone from the mountain to the Coast Highway and from there to be transported either up the highway to Monterey or loaded in ships at a nearby harbor, is a very frightening one. It would certainly change the character of the highway.

There was a brief hearing on it before the Monterey County Board of Supervisors a few weeks ago. It was not a routine hearing. Normally the lessee would apply to the county planning commission for a use permit. After hearings before the commission, it would then go to the board of supervisors for acceptance or rejection of the recommendations of the commission. In this case Dr. Robert Bowersox, then a Democratic candidate for Congress, approached the board of supervisors directly. His representative appeared at the hearing and made a strong case against the approval of the project. However, no action was taken by the supervisors, since the proceeding was out of the usual routine. The most disturbing thing about it was that one of the supervisors remarked that perhaps the mine was the best use that could be made of Pico Blanco. If he can persuade two of his colleagues to agree with him, then the Granite Rock Company has nothing to worry about. Three supervisors can overrule any favorable decision of the planning commission.

A change of supervisorial districts of the county which would give the Peninsula two supervisors instead of the present one would probably help this situation. Any candidate from the Peninsula who failed to endorse the conservationist attitude in this project would probably have little chance of election. From my talks with many people I feel sure that public sentiment is strongly against it.

Just why the Granite Rock Company should be spending so much money on development of the mine without any assurance that they can get a use permit is the big question at the present time. The county zoning ordinance governing such use permits reads as follows: "In order to grant any use permit, the findings of the planning commission shall be that the establishment, maintenance or operation of the use applied for will not under the circumstances of the particular case be detrimental to . . . property and improvements in the neighborhood or to the general welfare of the County."

I think that most people would feel that a blighting commercial development of this kind, with its defacement of scenery along the Coast Highway and its serious interference with traffic on the highway, would be "detrimental to the general welfare of the County." The best solution of the problem, of course, would be to find a public-spirited conservationist who would buy the leased property and present it to the Boy Scouts for an addition to their camp which at present adjoins it. Perhaps an initial fair-sized gift would attract other smaller gifts. The Point Lobos League, of which this writer is treasurer, would be glad to accept any such pledges.

Letters . . .

Box 5456, Carmel
June 29, 1962

Editor,

The Carmel Pine Cone:

This letter is being written in immediate protest to the removal of an exceptionally handsome, upright pine tree—somewhere in the vicinity of Dolores Street and Third Avenue.

Since we have invested a substantial amount of money in a new home here, and have considered the fine view we have enjoyed from our location as a part of our reason for locating here, it is of great concern to learn that private property owners are not restricted as to what they do about trees on their property.

Since trees add so much to the inherent beauty of this locality, as well as to its spiritual quality, then it seems to me that deeds to property should contain a clause stipulating that no healthy, beautiful tree shall be removed, and thus the particular beauty of Carmel shall be maintained.

Beauty belongs to all, and is in the eye of the beholder. So those from afar can see beauty where those close up to the tree may not be aware of it.

Since informed people are aware that houses can be built around trees, or a plan so adapted as to incorporate the tree into the scheme, it would seem that people who are indifferent to the rights of others, as to beauty and spiritual values, have no place in this community.

Yours sincerely,
Incensed Artist.

Editor,

The Carmel Pine Cone:

Our National Emblem, the Bald Eagle, is in grave danger of extinction. If it is to be saved, the Golden Eagle must also be preserved, as it is virtually impossible for the average person to distinguish between the immature Bald Eagle and the Golden Eagle in certain phases of their plumage. It would be a pity if either eagle were hunted to extinction.

As matters now stand, the House of Representatives has passed the Golden Eagle Bill, which will give the bird the protection it needs. However, the Senate has yet to vote on this issue. Unfortunately, at the time of the hearing on the two joint resolutions before the Senate Committee on June 26, Senator Clair Engle of California left the hearing after listening to only the damaging testimony of one of the opponents. The cattlemen and sheep ranchers are the chief opposition, although no instance of a proved killing of calf or sheep by an eagle has been presented. It would appear that Senator Engle, whose home is in the cattle and sheep country of north-

Brokerage Firm Abruptly Closes Doors

Reynolds & Co., pioneer stock brokerage firm, on 29 June, abruptly closed the doors of its Carmel office, after six years of business in this village.

The move came with little warning to Manager Stanley Ewig, who had been with the firm since 1956, and who had been its local manager since January, 1959.

"On the 19th of June we received orders to terminate operations at the close of business on the 29th," Ewig said, when asked if any forewarning of the move had come to him.

"Since the local office was not operating at a loss, the action was entirely unanticipated," Ewig further commented.

Seven people were released with the closing of the branch office. Ewig said that the closing apparently was triggered by an "economy" drive which resulted as well in the closing of the Salinas office, and others throughout the national chain of the New York Stock Exchange Member firm.

Ewig, a native of Carmel, said that his plans were not entirely defined at the moment. Several offers had been made to him and he hoped to continue in the securities field.

Joseph Arnest

Graveside services were held Tuesday in Golden Gate National Cemetery for Joseph James Arnest of Carmel who died at his home at Santa Fe Street and Second Avenue, last Friday afternoon following a short illness. He was 72 years old.

Born September 2, 1889, in New York City, Mr. Arnest had been with the E. F. Hutton Company in San Jose prior to his retirement. He had been a permanent resident of Carmel for the past six years, and had maintained his home here as a seasonal resident for some 19 years before that.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mae Arnest of Carmel, and two sisters, Miss Laura Arnest and Mrs. Liddie Johnson, both of Danbury, Connecticut.

He was a Navy veteran of World War I. Officiating at the funeral in San Bruno was the Reverend Edward Bucknall of San Jose. Friends may make memorial contributions in Mr. Arnest's name to CARE, addressed to the Carmel Post Office.

ern California, may vote to favor the ranchers and without all of the information necessary for an unbiased vote.

Those wishing to help save the Golden Eagle at this time of crisis, as well as aiding in the preservation of our National Emblem, the Bald Eagle, should write immediately to Senator Clair Engle, Senate Office Bldg., Washington 25, D. C., and express their viewpoint.

Sincerely yours,
Elgin B. Hurlbert,
Capt. U.S. Navy (Retired)
President, Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society.

Miss Standard

Miss Estelle P. Standard, Carmel businesswoman, died last Friday in a local hospital after a brief illness.

A local resident for the past three years, she was co-owner of the Party Carousel Shop. She was a native of New York City, born June 30, 1913. A former national Girl Scout executive, Miss Standard was from 1950-52 the personnel manager and training director for Hale's Company in San Francisco, also personnel director for the California Tuberculosis and Health Association.

She was a graduate of Hunter College, and of Columbia University, New York City, where she received an M.A. degree.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs.

Dianna Lesser of Brooklyn; a brother, William L. Standard, and her mother, Mrs. Fanny Standard, both of New York City.

Rabbi Abraham Haselkorn of the First Hebrew Congregation, Salinas, officiated at the funeral service Monday morning in the Paul Funeral Chapel. Inurnment was to follow in the Little Chapel by the Sea, Pacific Grove.

Friends and acquaintances may honor the memory of Miss Standard with contributions in her name to the Community Hospital, P. O. Box HH, Carmel.

Peggy Garretson Is Bride

Saturday evening in the Chapel-In-The-Pines, Pacific Grove, Peggy Kathleen Garretson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Garretson of Carmel, became the bride of Victor Paul Allen, the son of Mrs. Nadine Allen of South Gate, and Paul Allen of Los Angeles, who were both here for their son's wedding. The Reverend Harold Shields officiated at the 7:00 o'clock ceremony. White Shasta daisies decorated the pews, and bouquets of white stock and gladioli framed the altar.

Peggy, who was escorted up the aisle by her father, wore a short, bell-skirted, white silk organza wedding dress, with long sleeves and white flowers at the waist. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white carnations surrounding a white and pale yellow orchid.

Earline Garretson, a junior at Carmel High School, was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore an aquamarine Chinese mandarin sheath and carried white carnations.

John Oliver of Gardena was the bridegroom's best man, and the ushers were Jeff Risdon of San Jose (formerly of Carmel), and Clayton Hilbert of Carmel.

A reception for relatives and close friends was held in the chapel hall, which was decorated with white Shasta daisies and gladioli. Maxa Tadlock, a Carmel High School friend of the bride, caught Peggy's bouquet. When the young couple left for a Southern California honeymoon, Peggy wore a rose pink satin brocade suit, and pinned on it the orchid from her bouquet. The newlyweds will live in San Leandro.

Peggy graduated from Carmel High School last month. Her husband, a Huntington Park High School graduate, is serving with the United States Navy.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Peggy's two other sisters, Mrs. Janice White of Seaside, and Mrs. Ernest Davi of Oakland, the latter with her three children.

Stephanie Smedley Weds

After a honeymoon in the Colorado Rockies, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Anderson will make their home in Englewood, Colorado. The former Stephanie Smedley, daughter of Mrs. Sargent Smedley of Pebble Beach, and Dr. William C. Smedley of Littleton, Colorado, was married on June 22, the wedding anniversary of her grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Leonard Sargent of Pebble Beach, at the Chapel-in-the-Pines, Pacific Grove. Stephanie is also the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. William P. Smedley of Denver, and the niece of Miss Mary Sargent and Mrs. Louise Busic of Carmel.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of cream satin with long pointed sleeves and full cathedral train. Her veil was a white lace mantilla over a high Spanish comb, and she carried a fan of lilies-of-the-valley and white roses.

Peggy Garretson, to be married herself in the same chapel a few days later, was Stephanie's only attendant. She wore a pink brocade sheath with matching jacket and pillbox hat, and carried pink carnations.

Karen Busic, a cousin of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid,

One of the most responsible jobs held by a woman on the Monterey Peninsula belongs to Betty Wells who resides on San Carlos Street. Betty is known to many Carmel residents through her active interest in community work. She is a member of the American Women in Radio and Television, also of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel. Above, Miss Wells is seen boarding a plane on a business trip this week. She plans soon to leave by jet for a vacation in Canada, her native land.

wearing a sky blue organdy dress with a crown of blue flowers and a nosegay of blue carnations. Richard Busic, Karen's brother, was the ring bearer.

Donald Sutton of Westminster, Colorado, was the best man, and the ushers were James Rayle of Evergreen, Colorado, and William Vickery of Denver.

The bride's mother wore a beige suit with a Dubonnet flower hat and a corsage of roses. Mrs. Rufus A. Anderson of Englewood, Colorado, who was here with Mr. Anderson for their son's wedding, chose a beige dress with matching accessories and pink roses.

When she left for her wedding trip, Stephanie was wearing a pale blue brocade suit with a matching flowered hat and cream accessories.

The bride graduated from Carmel High School last month. Her husband is a graduate of Randall School in Denver.

Miss Wells is a secretary at the new shopping center located at the entrance to Carmel Valley, but, in addition, she is secretary-treasurer of the Carmel Rancho Corporation and Radio Station KRML. Betty came to Carmel in 1957 at the request of Sam S. Smith, president of both corporations, who had known of Betty's previous work in administration.

Miss Wells is a naturalized American citizen, having obtained her citizenship papers in April, 1951. A native of Kingston, Ontario, where she received her education, she worked with the district treasury office in Kingston and Petawawa during World War II. Upon moving to San Francisco in 1945, she held an interesting position with a major import-export firm until her move to the Southern California area where she resided until taking up residence in Carmel. In Southern California she was administrative assistant to the secretary-treasurer for a large privately owned utility firm.

During the Korean conflict, Miss Wells volunteered her services in a civilian capacity for her adopted country and was sent to Japan and Korea with the Air Force. Her experience in these countries included diplomatic relations with the Korean cabinet and meeting representatives from all the United Nations countries. In fact, she achieved such fine results in her work that she was officially complimented by the American government.

She is an avid traveler. During the two years she lived and worked in the Orient she traveled extensively.

Anne And Ted Roberts Here

In Carmel for their annual summer visit from Spokane, Washington, are Mr. and Mrs. Ted Roberts, with their younger daughter, Janie. Mrs. Roberts, the former Anne Greene, a talented pianist and the daughter of Mrs. Charles Sumner Greene of Carmel, grew up here, and played in early Bach Festivals, so there are always many old friends to look up and friendships to renew when the Robertses come back to visit.

This year they bring with them the exciting news of a four-months old granddaughter, Cynthia Anne Clark, who was born March 6. The baby is the daughter of the Robertses' older daughter, Susan, and her husband, Bob Clark, who also make their home in Spokane.

Joining to welcome them on the Peninsula this summer, besides Anne's mother, her sister, Bettie Greene, are her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Greene.

The Robertses, who arrived last week, are spending a few days in Los Angeles seeing the Roy Chanslors (Carmelites temporarily living in Southern California) before their return to Carmel at the end of the week.

Threepenny Opera At Wharf Theatre Sets Opening Record

Threepenny Opera, the Kurt Weill musical currently on stage at the Wharf Theatre in Monterey, will continue its run for the next two weeks. The show, which stars June Havoc, broke all season opening box office records at the playhouse last week end. Virgil Curry, who played Mack The Knife during Threepenny's smash six-year New York run, appears opposite Miss Havoc.

William Roerick, familiar to television watchers of such programs as Playhouse 90, Follow The Sun, and Clear Horizon, plays a featured comedy role.

The musical is on stage every night except Sunday at 8:30, with Saturday matinees at 2:30. Following the close of Threepenny Opera, the Wharf's all musical season will continue with Joe E. Brown starring in Damn Yankees, scheduled to open on July 16.

Young Carmelites Work For Red Cross During Vacation

Thirty-four high school and college age young people are serving as Red Cross volunteers throughout their summer vacation. Popularly known as VV's (Vacation Volunteers), these young people will serve in the same capacity as the adult Red Cross volunteers in the wards, library, and recreation lounge at the U. S. Army Hospital at Fort Ord. They will assist by staffing the bloodmobiles, also work with mentally retarded children at Children's House in Carmel Valley, and do clerical work in the chapter headquarters.

Chapter officials are again, for the fourth year, entrusting the station wagon to the VV's who will act as motor service drivers for their own members on trips to Fort Ord and other assignments.

The Red Cross Leadership Training Center will be the destination of two Carmel High School students who have been singled out for this honor. Kathleen Goulding and James Purvis will spend ten days in August at this special course of instruction under the auspices of top educators and Red Cross career staff in Freedom, near Watsonville.

The following are the names of those serving as vacation volunteers: Sandra Aldinger, Jeannie (Gloria) Borgman, Kitty Bucquet, Martha Campbell, Paula Clappett, Carolyn Cotchett, Carol Creighton, Leslie Fike, Kathleen Goulding, Chris Hatton, Deanna Johnson, Judy Kinion, Anne Kraus, Karen Lane, Sonja Little, Pamela Martineau, Gwen McEwen, Dianne Murphy, Melissa Newlin, Lynn Porter, Judith Pratt, Karen Reid, Florence Scudder, Jane Skillman, Mary Tobias, Marsha Todd, Susan Whit-

ALL SAINTS' BOOK FAIR

The second annual Book Fair will be held in the Parish Hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church on July 12, sponsored by St. Bede's Library Guild for the benefit of the parish library. Mrs. James Price and Mrs. James Neill are co-chairmen of the event which will open at 10:00 o'clock in the morning and close at 4:00 in the afternoon.

Besides the sale of books of every kind and description for any age or taste, there will be an exhibit of paintings including one donated by the late Abel Warshawsky to the Bishop Kip School.

Mrs. Chester Strickland, assisted by members of the Lydian Sewing Guild, will serve luncheon from 11:30-2:00 o'clock, and tea and cake from 2:30-4:00.

Communion services will be held Sunday at Christian Science churches throughout the world.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament" is the Golden Text from the Bible (Galatians 3): "Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said: 'If ye love me, keep my commandments.'" (p. 4).

Shown in front of the altar is Elizabeth Eleanor Matthews whose wedding to Larry Middleton took place at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon 24 June in the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey.

The daughter of Mrs. George Frederick Matthews of Carmel, and the late Mr. Matthews, a Chicago attorney, was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dr. George E. Shambaugh III, of Washington, D.C. Larry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Middleton of Gibson, Iowa, came West for their son's wedding.

Elizabeth chose the gown worn by her sister, Mrs. Shambaugh, the former Katherine Matthews, at her own wedding in 1956. Styled in ivory satin with princess lines and fitted bodice, the floor-length dress had a sweetheart neck, long sleeves and a cathedral train.

Handmade Venetian lace formed the sleeves and appeared as appliques on the neckline and front skirt panel. A bouffant fingertip veil of ivory silk illusion was secured by a tiny pill-box headdress of matching fabric, trimmed with seed pearls.

Sole attendant for her sister was Miss Georgianne Elizabeth Matthews, who was clad in a bouffant short gown of ice-blue satin, with sweetheart neckline and molded bodice.

Officiating at the afternoon rites was the long-time friend and former pastor of the Matthews family when they lived in Chicago, Dr. William Thomas, minister-emeritus of St. Paul's Church in Chicago, now a resident of the Monterey Peninsula.

Performing best man's duties was the bride's brother-in-law, Gerald M. Scherba of Chico.

While the bride carried a traditional colonial nosegay of roses and stephanotis accented with lace and ribbon, her maid of honor held a similarly styled nosegay of white roses with blue bachelor buttons, which approximated the hue of her costume.

Church decorations of early summer flowers included two jardin-homa, served with the United States Third Army during World War II. He was assigned to the Japan Logistical Command during the Korean War, and was stationed in Alaska before coming to Fort Ord in 1960. He graduated from Oklahoma City University, the General Staff College in 1943, and the Armed Forces Management School in 1955.

Colonel Pack, who is married and has lived in Carmel Valley since last September, says that he and his wife, Ida, "have dug roots here" and intend to stay. The Colonel's immediate plans include loafing, "with a capital L," cultivating the Pack's acre of land, and enjoying golf and horseback riding (they have two horses). The Packs have two children, Marc, 11, and Kathleen, 9.

Gay And Tony Are Engaged

When a ballet dancer becomes engaged to a flamenco guitarist, it seems appropriate that she receive her ring at the El Matador coffee house in San Francisco.

Gay Morris of Carmel Valley, the dancer, and Tony Weaver, formerly of Carmel Highlands, the guitarist, are planning to be married next June, after Tony finishes his pre-medical course at San Francisco State College, and before he enters medical school.

Gay, whose family has been associated with Carmel for 35 years, is the daughter of Mrs. Le Roy Dufur of Carmel Valley, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Alta Overhulse and the late Frank Overhulse.

She has one sister, Pamela Bennett, and a step-sister and brother, Helen Dayton and Larry Dufur. She was a pupil of Joanne Nix in Carmel, and as the winner of a P-TA scholarship from Carmel High School in 1958, her graduating year, and of a Kiwanis Talent Scholarship, studied with the Royal Ballet in England. At present she is learning flamenco dances, and will be a junior at the University of California at Berkeley this fall. She is working at Big Sur Lodge this summer.

Tony, who is attending summer school at Berkeley, also grew up in the Carmel area, and was a CHS graduate. His interest in medicine is combined with his avocation of flamenco guitar which he has studied intensively for several years and plays professionally. His most recent appearance as a guitarist on the Peninsula was at the KPFA benefit party Saturday evening. His parents are Mrs. Mary Weaver, and Robert Weaver, both of San Francisco. He has a sister, Mrs. Patricia Harrington of Berkeley, a former Carmel resident.

Penelope An Honor Student

The second semester Honor Roll of the College of Emporia in Kansas contains the name of Penelope Law Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Wilson of Carmel.

ieres of white stock with chrysanthemums framing the altar.

The Reverend Paul E. Baird, minister of the church, sang The Lord's Prayer as part of the nuptial music.

The wedding reception was held in the Victorian Room of the Pine Inn, where, surrounded by members of the bridal party and guests, the newlyweds cut a wedding cake garlanded with roses. The room was decorated with additional flowers and candelabra.

After a honeymoon trip through the Pacific Northwest, the young couple will make their home in Wyoming, Iowa, where Larry will be teaching physical education and science. Both Elizabeth and Larry are graduates of Iowa Wesleyan College, Elizabeth having received her bachelor's degree in psychology and philosophy just last month.

In Carmel for their sister's wedding and a family gathering were Mrs. George E. Shambaugh III (Katharine Matthews), of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Gerald M. Scherba (Coral Matthews), with the Scherbas' two little girls, Coral Elise, aged two, and Rachael, three weeks old. Mr. and Mrs. Myron Miller, family friends from Stevensville, Michigan, were also here for the wedding, as was Miss Lydia Scheiber of Los Angeles.

Colonel Pack Retires

A 28-year Army career came to a close on Friday when Colonel Dallas B. Pack, a member of the Quartermaster Corps and Fort Ord special services officer, retired at a ceremony held on the post's south parade ground.

Mrs. Carlson in East

Mrs. Jerome E. Carlson of Carmel left this week for a six-week visit to members of her family in Eastern United States, including Richard Salinger, youngest of her four sons, who lives in Wilton, Connecticut; Herbert and Pierre Salinger, both of Washington, D.C., and a sister, also of Washington. Mrs. Carlson, who is grandmother to 15 youngsters, will also be visiting several of these grandchildren on her eastern tour.

Chris Williams Weds In Maine

A glowing letter to his parents, Mona and Henry Meade Williams of Carmel, describes Christopher Williams's recent marriage to Charlotte Chandler of Scarsdale, New York.

The wedding took place June 21 on Strout Island off the coast of Maine, 50 acres of rocky shore and forested hills belonging to the Williams family, where Chris's grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams, regularly spent their summers before moving to Carmel in the 1920's.

Charlotte and Chris were married outdoors in a grove of birch trees near the weathered house. The simple ceremony was performed by a minister from Harrington, the nearest little mainland town. Many young friends from New York City, as well as members of nearby families who have summered for generations on that part of the Atlantic coast, were present at the wedding and afterwards at a reception in the big living room of the old summer home where Maine lobster and wine were served as refreshments.

The young couple met as students at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, New York, from which Chris graduated in June. They expect to make their home in New York, but are meanwhile vacationing on the island until the end of August.

Another couple, friends of the young Williamses and also recently married, will vacation there with them. The two men plan to undertake a little "judicious" lumbering on the over-forested island, with the intention of selling some cordwood before the end of the summer. Meanwhile their young wives will learn the intricacies of cooking meals on an old-fashioned wood-burning range.

Duvenecks Weekend Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Duveneck drove down to Carmel on Saturday from their home in Los Altos to attend the KPFA benefit party in Carmel Highlands. The Duvenecks are former Peninsula residents.

Visiting In Denver

Mrs. Walter Lamb of Pebble Beach will spend the next two weeks visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Graham, in Denver, Colorado.

Masons Will Meet

Carmel Lodge Number 680, F. & A. M., will hold a stated meeting tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. All master masons and sojourners are invited to attend.

Give Picture To Stanford

Included in works of art donated to Stanford University during the past year is a landscape attributed to Jan van Goyen, the gift of Major General and Mrs. W. E. R. Covert of Carmel. The picture will be displayed in an exhibit at Stanford Museum this summer.

Ink Spots Entertain At Center

Sylvia Goldman, who operates a recently opened theatrical agency in Carmel, arranged for the guest appearance Tuesday night at the Carmel Youth Center of the internationally known Ink Spots, singing quartet which is currently entertaining at a Cannery Row restaurant. Butch Williams, 18-year-old rhythm and blues singer, a Peninsula resident, followed the Ink Spots on the program.

Mrs. Serrem Visiting Here

Mrs. Edward MacDonald Serrem of Alexandria, Virginia, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. C. A. Mitchell of Carmel. Mrs. Serrem, with her husband, Colonel Serrem, their 11-year-old daughter, Pamela, and their son, Mark, came West to attend the marriage of their older daughter, Clarissa Ann (Penny) to Josiah Lovel Mickles, which took place recently in the Presidio of San Francisco Chapel.

Pamela was her sister's maid of honor, and Mark one of the ushers at the ceremony which took place in the same chapel where Penny's mother and grandmother were married. Mrs. Mitchell went to San Francisco for her granddaughter's wedding, as did Mrs. Marie Davies of Pebble Beach.

Penny graduated from Santa Catalina School, and last month, from the University of California at Berkeley. Her husband, the son of Mrs. Boice Gross of Boston, and the late John B. Mickles, is a graduate of Milton Academy, and is a University of the Pacific student. The young couple have taken an apartment in San Francisco, where Penny will work at the University of California Hospital.

Writer On Retirement Here

Fessenden S. Blanchard, author of Where To Retire And How, visited Carmel this week. He is preparing a new book on retirement which will be issued by Doubleday publishing house.

Mr. Blanchard plans to discuss Carmel in his new volume as a community where persons may live after retiring. His home is in Scarsdale, New York.

Retired himself, he still heads a group of retired marketing and management consultants throughout the United States who do research for cities and large organizations on a part time basis. They have recently completed a project for the City of Los Angeles and are now beginning research for a textile industry report on, as yet, unused synthetic fibers.

In addition to his book on retirement, Mr. Blanchard has published other books. The latest is a comprehensive volume discussing all types of sailboats in the United States.

Retired persons should develop new interests, or pursue old ones, utilizing the additional time retirement provides, Mr. Blanchard maintains. Opportunities for such pursuits seemed admirable in Carmel, he observed.

Demetrys At Home In Carmel

After a wedding trip through the Pacific Northwest, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Demetry, who were recently married in an afternoon ceremony at the Church of the Wayfarer, are in their new home at Santa Fe and Eighth Streets in Carmel.

Mrs. Demetry is the former Sally Ann Weidlein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weidlein of San Bruno, and a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, where she was affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Jim, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Demetry of Pittsfield, Massachusetts, is a 1958 graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, where he also received his master's degree in 1960.

After a summer getting settled in their new home, and, in Jim's case, doing some intensive studying for a group of comprehensive examinations, the newlyweds will go back to their respective teaching duties in the fall. Sally is a member of Monterey Union High School faculty, and Jim is an instructor of electrical engineering at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School, where he is also engaged in studies toward his Ph.D. degree in the same field.

CARMEL—The neatest, cleanest, soundest 3 BEDROOM, 2 BATH HOME. For it's youth and atmosphere, is considered too, too good value for the price. Not contaminated by swankey "So. of Ocean" prices yet in a swell neighborhood. You couldn't guess? The kitchen is built-in with dishwasher and disposal. Has a shake roof, double garage and a 7,000 sq. ft. lot, county of course. We only want $24,000 for the charming place.

MONTEREY—A PARTMENT HOUSE. Near Navy School. "O" vacancies. 4-one bedroom furnished units. Gross income $5040, nets $4,000 plus equity plus depreciation. $42,000.

SEASIDE—ORD TERRACE, A 6 year old, modern and roomy 2 BEDROOM, 1 BATH Adobe home. Near shops, churches, schools and with a bay view. $2,500 cash will handle. $16,500.

SANTA CRUZ—If you want to argue with TAXES, INSURANCE, MAINTENANCE, why not consider a TRAILER COURT? You have the choice of several both small and large, some have over 75% permanent tenants. Expenses are on the few improvements only. Be glad to furnish details.

THIS LITTLE HOUSE needs a fireplace. It already has a large living room with a bay window and a fine spot for a Danish fireplace. It's a typical little Carmel doll house in a picturesque garden, close to the village and the beach. $17,500, and very reasonable terms.

AN AUSTRIAN CHALET with a fireplace in the middle of the comfortable living room which also features a cathedral ceiling and paneled walls. Serve your guests from the quarry tile counters of the Butler's pantry the food you've prepared in the charming, efficient and very modern kitchen. A master suite plus a guest bedroom and bath at the other end of the house, a sunny South patio, a prestige location, a fair price of $35,000. A delightful original home to please you and your guests for years to come. Don't miss seeing it.

PICTURESQUE CARMEL RAMBLER near the beach on Carmel Point. 4 bedrooms, 4 bathrooms, 2 living rooms, 2 kitchens, an old-fashioned garden. A fine home for a family interested in charm and unconventional character, or a really good investment for rentals, or combine the two. The best tenant in the world would like to remain in part of the property, if you're interested, ask for our brochure.

36 FT. LIVING ROOM and a skylighted studio plus 2 bedrooms and 2 baths on a 90x125 ft. completely fenced lot. Handsome Norman architecture, and the vaulted living room ceiling is one of the prettiest in Carmel. $37,000.

INVEST OR SPECULATE: 4 apartments and 125 ft. C-1 frontage to build on located in fast growing P. G. shopping center. Nothing to compare on the whole Peninsula. Price $54,000 with excellent terms. Don't wait; call Lois Renk right now.

EVERYONE ASKS US, "IS THE MARKET SLOW?" Not if (1) you have a valid reason to sell your property; (2) your price is in line with current market values; and (3) your property is adequately advertised and properly presented to prospects who are qualified to buy it. If you must sell, we'd like to help you on all three points. No obligation, of course.

Art On The Peninsula

Twenty-five oil paintings of the California Coast, Carmel to San Simeon, by Bennett Bradbury are on exhibit this month at the Artists Guild of America, Inc. at the northwest corner of Ocean Avenue and Monte Verde Street. The galleries are open daily from 11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

This is the second show of Bradbury marines at the Artists Guild. He is considered an outstanding interpreter of the sea in its many moods. Art News stated, "No sea ever looked so much as it should," in reviewing his work.

Collectors who have acquired Bradbury marines include the Shah of Iran, Huntington Hartford, American Airline president C. R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dupont, Count and Countess di Grazzi of Florence, Italy.

His paintings also have been acquired for the permanent collections of the St. Louis Museum, Cleveland Museum in Indiana, Columbus Museum in Georgia, Admirals' Club, Washington, D.C., as well as by institutions and private collectors in South America, Mexico and the United States.

Oils and watercolors by Frank Hamilton who paints in the second medium in the tradition of Homer, Kautsky and O'Hara are included in a one-man show of this artist's work at the Artists Guild of America.

The 32-year-old painter completed studies at Stanford University and the University of Kansas, then spent two years in military service prior to full-time painting activities.

Subjects of his pictures in his current Carmel show, which will be on display through July, are varied, and were painted in such places as the Bahamas, Mexico, New Orleans, Florida, Carmel, Los Angeles, Venezuela, the Canal Zone, Haiti, and Big Sur.

Friendship Abounds As Pacific Air Lines Starts New Service

(Continued from Page One) time without first making some inquiries into the state of our relations with San Diego. Mr. Dixon assured Mayor Whitaker that everything was just dandy. Mayor Whitaker responded that it was all right for him to say that now, but what if something went wrong between Carmel-by-the-Sea and San Diego during the week of 1 July to 7 July?

Since Mr. Dixon could give only friendly but vague assurances that nothing could possibly go wrong, Mayor Whitaker, still friendly but by now increasingly firm, advised Mr. Dixon that friendly Carmel-by-the-Sea, while it liked doughnuts, pickles, stray animals, healthy children, law, order and the further advancement of practically everything, never, NEVER, issued proclamations to such an effect. It could be incriminating and, besides, the implication that friendliness might have to cease at the end of the week, just when everything was going well, was too disconcerting.

So, when the Inaugural Flight arrived Saturday morning, 32 minutes late, the congeniality would have been unbounded if the subtle annoyance caused by the city's abstinence had not been brooding over the multitude of city, chamber and Pacific Air Lines officials present.

The mood was dispelled, however, when the plane wheeled up to the unloading ramp. The door popped open and two crisp young men bounded down the plane's steps, carrying standards with Pacific Airlines signs on them, which they placed on either side of the ramp.

Mr. Dixon stretched a red ribbon between the standards. The stewardess stood in the doorway, smiling at everyone and posing for cameramen. At a signal from Mr. Dixon, the stewardess stepped aside and a whole bunch of friendly San Diego city and chamber of commerce officials debouched from the plane, to be met by an equally friendly group of Peninsula officials.

Everybody milled around in a sort of friendly confusion until Mr. Dixon and some of his lieutenants winnowed out six of the friendliest persons, shoved scissors into their hands, lined them up along the ribbon and got them to smile. Everyone held their breath. "Now, snip!" Mr. Dixon commanded, cheerfully.

The officials snipped, cameras flashed, everybody cheered. Mr. Dixon poked handkerchiefs of red ribbon segments into the pockets of beaming officials and the whole happy-go-lucky group was efficiently herded on to buses to be taken to Pebble Beach for lunch at Del Monte Lodge.

E. T. Claeson, president of the chamber, made a round of introductions after lunch, concluding with Mr. Ray Costello, vice-president of Pacific Air Lines, who presented an album containing all of the proclamations. He named each city committed to be friendly during the week, passing over Carmel-by-the-Sea with hardly any discomfort.

Friendship notwithstanding, only one friendly mayor was present, James Wilson of Del Rey Oaks. Cordial substitutes were Mayor pro tempore of Monterey, George Clemens, Councilman Ed Whitaker of Pacific Grove, vice-mayor Charles Bentley of San City, and Councilman Joe Cota of Seaside.

After a tour of the Peninsula and a cocktail party at Sal Cerrito's Neptune's Table on Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey, the San Diegans returned home, transported by delight and Pacific Air Lines.

Daily flights of the new direct service are now in effect, leaving Monterey Peninsula Airport at 5:49 p.m. and arriving in San Diego at 8:13 p.m.; leaving San Diego at 8:40 p.m. and arriving in Monterey at 11:29 p.m. One way, first class fare is $28.55. Coach fare, one way, is $19.75.

Walter Ronne

Walter B. Ronne of Robles del Rio died Monday morning in a local rest home after an illness of short duration. He was 68.

Survivors are a niece, Mrs. Virginia Smith of Los Angeles, and a nephew, John Ronne of Fresno. Mr. Ronne's wife, Mrs. Lina Willis Ronne, preceded him in death in 1958.

A resident of Carmel Valley for the past 14 years, Mr. Ronne was born in Warren, Pennsylvania, August 24, 1893. He was a retired newspaperman, formerly with the Los Angeles Times.

Funeral services were to be this afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, with the Reverend Harvey Buck of St. Mary's - by - the - Sea Episcopal Church officiating, and the Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Editor's Window

(Continued from Page One) ness and the business of art, both of which a newspaper must conscientiously respect. In pursuit of either, energy, imagination, pride and stubborn confidence are the raw and essential juices which turn substance and fancy into something worth reading — all, except that bit by Webster, who obviously was some kind of a nut.

We have in mind making some substantial changes in the Pine Cone. Perhaps you will not agree with all, but you will disagree with few. We hope to feature many pictures, of faces and places, events and ceremonies, making greater use of the curious, indefatigable camera lens to report and editorialize. Changes in format, composition, content and emphasis are also to be anticipated. We hope that our enthusiastic experiments will produce a lively sophisticated, influential newspaper with a well-proportioned appreciation for the artistic, business, social, cultural and political influences which shape our society and make a newspaper worth your attention.

We shall, of course, continue to view with alarm and point in dismay. These are the classic responses of any genuine Carmelite. But, unless we altogether abandon our sense of proportion, such dour reactions will have to prove more effective than the surgery of wit or the restorative of humor.

Clarence Holman

Clarence Edward Holman, prominent Carmel Valley resident and the son of the founder of Holman's Department Store in Pacific Grove, died Tuesday evening at his home following a prolonged period of failing health.

Eighty-four at the time of his death, Mr. Holman had been a Peninsula resident for the past 78 years, having come here with his father, the late Rensselaer Luther Holman, when the latter went into the department store business here.

Mr. Holman was born August 14, 1877, in Sacramento, where his family had already established a store. His mother was Laura Whitcomb Holman.

After the family moved to the Peninsula, young Clarence attended Pacific Grove schools and worked at a variety of jobs, including driving a rig for guests of the fashionable old Del Monte Hotel.

For 17 years, too, he worked with the Pacific Grove Holman's store. He later went into ranching in Corral de Tierra. From there he first moved to Carmel Valley, where he operated a 1,100-acre cattle ranch on Los Laureles Grade. He also operated as a rancher for some time at Aromas, coming back in 1942 to Carmel Valley where he established the Holman Guest Ranch. During his years of residence in the Valley, he has been an enthusiastic benefactor of the community.

He acquired and subdivided many Valley areas, including Carmel Valley Village and Tulareitos School. He donated to the church the property now occupied by the Valley Community Church.

Mr. Holman's wife, Vivian Lucille Ogden, survives him, as do a daughter, Mrs. Vernon Hurd of Carmel Valley; a sister, Mrs. An-draw Steven of Piedmont; a brother, W. R. Holman of Pacific Grove; a half-brother, Ritter Holman of Carmel; three grandchildren, Gordon and Marilyn Hurd of Carmel Valley, and Mrs. Adrienne Knoles Olivier of Seattle; three great-grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Preceding him in death were two sons, Ivan Dawson Holman, who died in 1930, and Grandison Harcourt Holman, who died in 1959; a daughter, Mrs. Gordon Knoles, who died in 1958, and their mother, Estella Dawson Holman, who died in 1915. Mr. Holman remarried; Henrietta Valpey Holman died in 1954.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon at Paul's Chapel, Pacific Grove, with the Reverend Don Johnson officiating. The Reverend Johnson is minister of Carmel Valley Community Chapel, of which Mr. Holman was a member.

HIGHLANDS MAN INJURED

Shortly after midnight, a cook at Highlands Inn received minor injuries in an accident on Highway One south of the entrance to Point Lobos State Park.

According to the California Highway Patrol report, Victor Juranic, 52, who lives at the hotel, was driving south on Highway One when bright lights of a car coming in the opposite direction caused him to lose control of his automobile. He spun out into a tree on the right side of the road. Major damage to the car resulted.

TASSAJARA SPRINGS

A SPA IN THE OLD TRADITION
IN THE MOUNTAINS BETWEEN
CARMEL VALLEY AND BIG SUR

Tassajara began business as a resort around 1880. Its character has not changed a great deal since that time. *It offers a comfortable retreat into a vast and spectacular wilderness area, sunshine, serenity and well seasoned food. The TV reception is nil, radio reception only fair. Gentle recreations are encouraged. More strenuous ones are available. Its a wonderful place to unwind.
